Why not use this magical time of year to share the many pleasures of reading with your children and friends, at home or anywhere you happen to be!

Reading is a great way to have fun and share memorable moments as a family. Reading is also handy for writing to Santa Claus, enjoying word games and board games, and even some video games.

How are Laval teens doing?

This survey tool, produced for the Fondation Jeunes en Tête by the Observatoire Jeunes et Société (OJS), part of the Institut national de la recherche scientifique (INRS), measures wellness among young people aged 11 to 17 in Laval based on a statistical study encompassing six aspects: financial conditions, education, physical and mental health, living environment, and subjective wellness of young people. Data are available for individual regions of Québec as well as for the entire province.
